GARDENS & SCULPTURES

Willinga Park's fusion of art and nature is remarkable. As visitors approach Willinga Park, their initial impression is one of awe, as they encounter the first of many unexpected and thoughtfully scattered art sculptures seamlessly integrated into the natural landscape.

This impressive permanent private sculpture collection features 36 works by both internationally and nationally celebrated artists offering a unique and immersive experience for all who visit.

The artistic journey at Willinga Park spans across various styles and influences, with contributions from well-known Australian, New Zealand, Chinese, and Japanese sculptors. Artists such as Phil Price, Jeff Thompson, Virginia King, Wei Wang, and Haruyuki Uchida have contributed to the diverse ensemble, adding a playful and dynamic atmosphere to the serene surroundings.

A highlight of the sculpture collection is the imposing five-meter-tall bronze sculpture Walking by Wei Wang, greeting visitors upon arrival with its oversized figurine. Additionally, the Red Balance Beam by Haruyuki Uchida, crafted from stainless steel and magnet paint, offers a mesmerising spectacle as it subtly sways with the flow of air and human touch, symbolising the invisible forces of gravity and air.

Wandering through Willinga Park's stunning landscape, visitors can explore the winding paths, water features, and striking art installations, creating an immersive experience that transcends the traditional boundaries of art appreciation. The 10-hectare botanic gardens, established in 2010, showcase a native Australian wonderland with a diverse array of trees, plants, and shrubs.
