

PRIVACY POLICY

We understand that your privacy is important to you. It's important to us too. We want to be open with you about the personal information that we need to collect, hold, use and share to provide our services to you. The information in this privacy policy explains how we do this.

1. How does this privacy policy apply to you?

This privacy policy applies from 1 May 2026.

It covers all our interactions with you and, if we provide any services to you, forms part of our Terms of Engagement which you can find at www.pic.co.nz/terms-of-engagement.

Where this privacy note refers to we, us or our, it means P.I.C Insurance Brokers Limited, Stockade Premium Funding Limited (Stockade) and any related companies. Our address is 3/15 Accent Drive, East Tamaki, Auckland 2013.

We use examples throughout this privacy policy. They describe common scenarios with the aim of helping you understand the point they relate to. They don't cover all scenarios.

2. What personal information do we collect?

Personal information includes any information that could identify you. We collect the following types of personal information about you for ourselves and also as an agent for Stockade:

- basic personal, contact and demographic information
- sensitive and lifestyle information
- credit and background checks
- information about your beneficiaries, relationships, family members and dependents
- information about your current and previous employment, certifications and training
- information about your accounts, finances, property, assets, purchases and consumption
- unique identifiers and copies of official documents
- information about your current and previous insurances;
- claim information

- criminal records and professional disciplinary information
- events, meetings and calls information and CCTV footage
- marketing information and preferences
- sites and communication usage
- any other information required to arrange or advise on insurance products, to design, deliver and operate our services, or to run our business

In addition to collecting personal information about you directly from you, we also collect it from others who are named on your policy as co-insureds or who have authority to act on your behalf (including powers of attorney, solicitors and executors), the third parties in section 4 and from other publicly available sources. We will treat this personal information in accordance with this privacy policy.

Before you give us information about anyone else, please get their consent.

Where necessary, we may also collect from you this personal information for your children and/or dependents.

You can choose to not share some of your personal information with us. However, it may mean that we can't confirm your identity, help you with your queries, provide our services, offer you insurance products or manage your insurance products. If an insurance product requires it, you have a duty under the law to disclose all relevant information.

We may include links to various third parties on our websites, applications, portals, social media channels and any other communications. We are not responsible for their content or what they do with any information they collect.

3. How do we use your personal information?

We use your personal information to:

- Provide our services e.g.:
 - determine if you meet the requirements for particular insurance products and advise you on insurance products that are suitable for you
 - get quotes for insurance products, arrange placement of insurance products and ongoing management of insurance products, including renewals,

- adjustments, cancellations, claims and settlement
- confirm your identity, communicate with you about your insurance products and respond to your requests, queries and complaints
- do any of the following which may be required in order to do the above: run credit or background checks, confirm your identity, make or manage transactions, send you information in relation to your insurance products or collect money that you owe us

 - IT software, security, data storage and cloud suppliers
 - people and organisations who help us build, improve, run and maintain systems and processes, train our staff and manage our risks
 - third party cookie providers, such as Google Analytics, which give us insights into demographics and behavioural information, who has viewed our advertising on other websites, and help us understand browsing behaviour
 - marketing, digital, communications and sponsorship specialists (including market researchers, marketing agencies, social media specialists, customer survey providers and customer experience specialists)
 - sponsorship and charitable partners
 - industry bodies
 - referral agents
 - people and organisations who we conduct commercial transactions with, such as selling, purchasing, merging or reorganising our business or assets (including client portfolios)
- Government and regulatory bodies, and courts, to prevent crimes and comply with New Zealand and international laws e.g. the Financial Markets Authority, the Commerce Commission, the Department of Internal Affairs, the Police and judicial bodies
- Dispute resolution services e.g. the Insurance & Financial Services Ombudsman (IFSO) where you ask them to resolve a complaint

- Our related companies
- Other third parties when you ask us to or agree to us doing so

From time to time, we share your information with a third party who is overseas. They may need to comply with laws that require them to share this information with other parties. They may also not be required to protect your information in a way that provides comparable safeguards to those provided under the Privacy Act 2020.

5. How do we keep your personal information safe?

We strive to ensure the security, integrity and privacy of all the personal information you provide to us.

Generally, we hold your personal information in New Zealand. It may be held on our behalf by data storage providers, including cloud-based storage providers, who hold data in New Zealand or overseas.

These are some of the ways we protect your personal information:

- IT system security measures e.g. we limit digital access to your personal information to those who need it for the purposes set out in section 3 and we utilise firewalls and virus scanning software to block unauthorised access to our servers
- Physical controls e.g. we limit access to our physical buildings through the use of alarms, cameras and/or access cards, and the physical servers we utilise are in secure locations which are accessible only by those who are authorised
- Third party assurances e.g. we take reasonable steps to ensure the third parties in section 4 (with whom we share personal information or who hold personal information on our behalf) have reasonable security measures in place to protect personal information
- Internal procedures e.g. we have internal procedures that govern how we store, secure, access, use and share your personal information, we test these procedures through, amongst other things, penetration and business continuity testing, and we regularly identify and review cyber and other security risks and implement measures to manage those risks

While we do what is reasonable to keep your personal information safe, to the extent the law permits, we disclaim all liability for events arising from unauthorised or improper access, use or sharing of your personal information.

6. How to access, update and correct your personal information

It is important that the information you give us is complete, accurate and up to date.

You have the right to request access to, update or correct your personal information. If you'd like to do so, please contact us using the details in section 8. We'll usually get back to you within 20 working days. If it's going to take longer, we'll make sure we keep you updated.

In some cases, we may have grounds under the Privacy Act 2020 for refusing your request. If we do this, we'll explain the reasons for our decision. If we refuse a request to correct certain information, you can ask us to attach a statement of correction to your personal information.

We don't usually charge a fee to complete these sorts of requests. If we are going to, we'll let you know so you can decide if you want to proceed before we go ahead.

7. Changes to this privacy policy

We may make changes to this privacy policy as follows:

- if the changes are minor and either beneficial to you or of immaterial consequence (including a change to protect the security of your personal information, or align them with good industry practice or legal requirements), we may give you no notice of the change; and
- if we make a change other than the above, we will give you reasonable notice of the change.

If we need to give you notice of the change, depending on how significant the changes are, we will:

- put a notice on our website; or
- send you an email or letter at the last email or postal address we have on our records for you.

Our website will always have the current version of this privacy policy.

8. How to get in touch with us

If you have any questions or concerns about this privacy policy or our handling of your personal information, please submit an enquiry through www.pic.co.nz/contact, contact us at admin@pic.co.nz, call us on 0508 742 742 or write to us via PO Box 58842 Botany Auckland 2163.

If you would like to make a complaint, please follow our complaints process which can be found at www.pic.co.nz/complaints. Additionally, if you're not satisfied with how we've handled your complaint after you've been through our internal process, you can contact the Office of the New Zealand Privacy Commissioner. More information can be found at www.privacy.org.nz.
