Who is this for?

The MSc Management with Human Resource Management programme is designed to develop managers of the future who bring data skills and insight to their profession along with the professional skills and attributes required of an HR professional.

Our expectation is that having been successful at your undergraduate studies, you are now looking to develop a range of generalist and specialist skills ready to take on a management role within any sector.

Why choose this programme?

- With a specific focus on the organisational and people aspects of business and management, you will gain a deep understanding of international human resource management
- This programme opens doors to various roles, from HR management to organisational development and broader management roles
- HR roles often involve tackling diverse challenges, from recruitment strategies to employee engagement initiatives
- You'll develop essential skills in leadership, communication, and strategic thinking, which are valuable not just in HR but in any management role

What will you learn?

- The knowledge, understanding and skills relevant for pursuing a management or human resources career
- How to systematically and creatively inform management practice through the development of advanced knowledge and understanding
- The course has a global focus with specialist units exploring issues including managing people across different cultures, organisational and employment-related issues and the development of people as a resource
- These are complemented by core management units which concentrate on developing your leadership skills, customer experience strategy, as well as contemporary issues in the business world such as sustainability
- An improvement in independence, self-direction and self-development

Why choose the 18-month PDP option?

Take a structured approach to your professional development, with the knowledge, skills and behaviours you need to succeed in finding jobs and Graduate visa opportunities. During your Professional Development Planning, you'll undertake projects, voluntary work, placements, or an internship.*

In addition to your academic study, you can benefit from:

- 1-2-1 coaching
- Self-serve skills content for independent study
- Access to LinkedIn Learning courses
- Speaker events from professionals in industry
