

PALM

SPRINGS

ASSOULINE

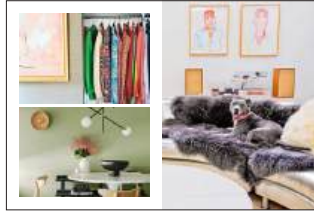

Left: An interior shot of the Stewart Residence; the home was designed by architect Albert Frey.

Right: The exterior of the Parker Palm Springs is a standout.

Left: Eclectic taste reigns supreme in Palm Springs interior design.

Right: A handsome staircase and architectural chairs serve as focal points in the Kimpton Rowan Palm Springs Hotel.

Left: Palm Springs interiors employ color in a myriad of ways.

Right: Eido Galore luxuriates on a textured couch in this 1969 William Krisel-designed home.

Left: Beautiful baubles adorn this jacket at Macalstaire Vintage.

Right: Artist Rob Pruitt has a Katherine Bernhardt print of Colin Kaepernick over the fireplace in his library, and the floor is covered with Rainbow Cross for Two by Jonathan Horowitz.

Left: A worker strolls through the patterned lobby of the Sands Hotel & Spa.

Right: Jonathan Adler's palette of bright colors is on full display at the Parker Palm Springs hotel.

An animal-print room in the guesthouse of Liberace's Palm Springs Estate. Liberace—known for his love of opulence and flair—lived out his final days in Palm Springs.

Left: A delicious spread at the Pink Cabana at Sands Hotel & Spa.

Right: A great example of Palm Springs decor—colorful stacks of books and vintage glassware in desert hues.

Left: A model has fun with a vinyl pressing of a Frank Sinatra album while at the Sinatra estate in Palm Springs. Photographed by Cameron Hammond.

Right: On the Rocks, the ultimate luxury Airbnb in Palm Springs.

A poolside game of Scrabble, photographed by Slim Aarons, 1970.

Beverage and treat car at the Colony Palms Hotel and Bungalows.

Left, from top: Stunning cacti gardens at Sunnylands Center & Gardens; vintage mint-green car.

Right: Blooming bougainvillea and an array of succulents envelop this house, renovated by Hal Broderick and Arthur Elrod in 1968.

Left: Caftans are commonplace in Palm Springs, where temperatures can reach up to 120 degrees Fahrenheit.

Right: Beautiful exterior shot of the Sands Hotel & Spa.

Norma's, the comfy yet stylish patio eatery, is located in the Parker Palm Springs and is popular with locals and visitors alike for classic American fare.

Left: The garden of the Parker Palm Springs.

Right: Fashion designer Trina Turk in the outdoor area of her Palm Springs home.

Left: Even when camouflaged, actor Billy Porter can't help but make a statement, here in a Gucci outfit during a Palm Springs photo shoot.

Right: Palm-printed wallpaper in a guest room at Arrive Palm Springs.

American actor and race-car driver Steve McQueen's former Palm Springs estate features a living room encased in glass cantilevered over the rugged hillside; through the windows one can see the majestic San Jacinto Mountains.

Left: Longtime Palm Springs resident and USO headliner Bob Hope practices his swing at home in 1995.

Right: Singer Frank Sinatra at the third annual Chuck Connors Charity Invitational in 1969.

The personal tennis court at venerable actor and filmmaker Kirk Douglas's Palm Springs home.

Left: Neatly lined-up vintage rackets.

Right: BNP Paribas Open held in Indian Wells throughout the decades.

Equestrian sports are plentiful in Palm Springs. Here Dutch equestrian Mathijs Van Asten and his horse Hotspot take first place at the Grand Prix at Desert International Horse Park.

Left: Kirk Douglas in 1952 at the Racquet Club, founded by actors Charles Farrell and Ralph Bellamy in 1934.

Right: Tennis is a mainstay in Palm Springs.

Left, from top: The professional boxer Art Lasky and his mascot Pooch in 1935 at Palm Springs airport; Desert Air Motel in Palm Springs, a fly-in motel, complete with an airstrip.

Right: Plane parked at the Desert Air Motel.

Left: A modern engineering marvel, the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway—with the world's largest rotating tram cars.

Right: The Tramway, which opened in 1963, was proposed by electrical engineer Francis F. Crocker.

Left: Designed by Frank Lloyd Wright protégé John Lautner, the Elrod House was built in 1968.

Right: Nicknamed the Ship of the Desert, this 100-percent-energy-self-sufficient home in Rancho Mirage was designed by Barnes Coy Architects.

Left: Then governor Ronald Reagan rides his horse at the National Governors' Conference in Palm Springs in 1968.

Right: Richard Nixon with daughter Tricia at the National Governors' Conference in Palm Springs in 1968.

Details of the ceiling and main room of the Elrod House.

Bougain Villa, designed by William Burgess and Albert Frey, bathed in late-afternoon sunlight.

Left: Eva Gabor at the Palm Springs Rodeo Parade, 1970.

Right: Dinah Shore plays a round of golf in Palm Springs, circa 1973.

The pool area of Raymond Loewy's Palm Springs house designed by Albert Frey.

Left: The desert landscape is an endless well of creative inspiration.

Right: An exterior image of Elvis Presley's iconic Honeymoon House, which was dubbed the House of Tomorrow thanks to the futuristic design by Robert Alexander.