DANIELS

Academy Award–winning duo Daniels—Daniel Kwan and Daniel Scheinert—are among the most distinctive voices in contemporary American cinema. With backgrounds spanning animation, design, comedy, and theater, they write, direct, edit, and create their own visual effects, often performing or stunt doubling themselves. Their work blends absurdist spectacle with emotional sincerity, balancing self-aware humor and formal invention.

They first gained international recognition through boundary-pushing music videos, including Foster the People’s “Houdini” (Grammy nomination), Manchester Orchestra’s “Simple Math” (UK MVA Video of the Year), and DJ Snake x Lil Jon’s “Turn Down for What” (MTV VMA for Best Direction; over 1B views), earning major honors such as a Cannes Lions Grand Prix and multiple D&AD Yellow Pencils.

In advertising, Daniels have directed campaigns for brands including Levi’s, Toyota, Delta Air Lines, Gap, and Nike. Their Gap Instagram series “Spring Is Weird” and Nike’s Olympic spot “Unlimited”, featuring Serena Williams and Kevin Durant, received international acclaim.

Their debut feature “Swiss Army Man” premiered at Sundance in 2016, winning the U.S. Dramatic Directing Award and releasing worldwide via A24. They later returned with Everything Everywhere All at Once, which grossed over $100 million globally, earned 11 Academy Award nominations, and won seven, including Best Director and Best Picture.
