How can this figure be compared with other stations?

The French standard (Method B) allows for the skier's track to be taken into account and for a coefficient of up to 30% to be applied to the measurement taken along the direct route (Method A). LA ROSIÈRE - ESPACE SAN BERNARDO could therefore, using method B, claim $156 \text{ km} \times 1.3 = 20,280 \text{ km}$ of slopes, placing it amongst the largest interconnected ski areas.
