

ARTICLE 8

The jury of the competition is made up of several judging committees. Each committee will consist of :

- 3 wine tasters, holding a qualification as wine technicians or oenologists or any other equivalent qualification obtained outside of Italy, possibly representing an associate region of CERVIM;
- 1 expert wine taster, from Italy or another country;
- 1 wine journalist working for the national and international press.

Judging will be done according to the assessment form developed by the U.I.O.E - "Union Internationale des Œnologues" (International Union of Oenologists) which is used during international wine competitions. The evaluation form uses a scale of 100 points.

The tasting committees are made up of 5 members: one of the wine tasters acts as President of his or her judging table and carries out a preliminary check to verify that all forms are filled in correctly, as well as regulating the order of the tasting sessions.

If any of the judges is not able to carry out his or her duties during any tasting session, they may be replaced by Italian wine technicians and/or journalists designated by the president of the judging committees, excluding anyone who has directly or indirectly contributed to the organisation of the competition. The judges' verdict is final. For confidentiality reasons, only the list of the award-winning wines will be made public, not the list of all the wineries participating in the competition nor the score assigned to each sample.

Till 31st December 2012, upon request, CERVIM will provide wine producers with a copy of the jury's evaluation of their wine(s).

ARTICLE 9

Each wine entered in the competition will be evaluated by a committee.

Selected wines will be awarded respectively:

- a silver medal from 84 to 89 points
- a gold medal from 89.01 to 94 points
- a grand gold medal from 94.01 to 100 points.

As established by the rules of the OIV (International Organization of Vine and Wine), the total amount of awards assigned must not exceed 30% of the total number of samples enrolled in the competition.

The final score for each sample is determined by calculating the arithmetic mean of each numerical rating, after having eliminated the highest and the lowest evaluations.

ARTICLE 10

The 2012 "CERVIM Special Prize" will be awarded to the winery (from each participating country) with the top score, that is the total of the highest scores obtained by 3 wines enrolled in 3 different categories that have a score of at least 80 points out of 100.

The 2012 "CERVIM Grand Prize" will be awarded to the wine that obtains the best overall score.

A special Prize will be awarded to the best wine of each participating country with at least 8 wineries enrolled.

The 2012 "CERVIM Futuro" Prize will be awarded to the winery whose owner or associate is 35 years old or younger and whose wine obtains the best score. In order to participate, you must send a copy of your ID card or a copy of the details of your company's registration with competent authorities.

New: A Prize will be awarded to the top-scoring organic or biodynamic wine, entered in any of the categories available for submission. This prize will be awarded only if at least 5 wineries participate by enrolling their wines.

A Prize will be awarded to the top-scoring wine produced on small islands. Again, this prize will be awarded only if at least 5 wineries enrol their wines.

ARTICLE 11

The announcement of the award-winning wines will be given during a special ceremony organised by CERVIM: in this occasion all the award-winning wines will be available for a wine-tasting event open to the public in a specially-set tasting area.

CERVIM will supply the international press with a list of the competition winners. All award-winning wines will also feature in a special promotional campaign conducted by CERVIM. In order to promote mountain wines or wines produced in difficult orographic conditions, as well as to promote the Competition itself, the organisers reserve the right to present the wines which have been awarded medals or special prizes at events, fairs, press conferences and institutional ceremonies. Wine producers receiving one of the awards, as specified in Articles 9 and 10, and wishing to mention this during their business activity, should follow the general rules in force in each country, in compliance with the guidelines issued by the International Organization of Vine and Wine (OIV).

Any prize which will not be claimed during the award ceremony will be sent to the wine producer by CERVIM, which, however, declines any responsibility for non-delivery or loss of any awards.

ARTICLE 12

The Event Committee reserves the right to change these entry requirements at any time should it be necessary, upon receiving authorization from the competent government body. Any dispute arising will be subject to the jurisdiction of the Judicial Court of the city of Aosta, Italy.

CERVIM (Research and Coordinating Centre for the Protection, Promotion and Enhancement of Mountain Viticulture), in collaboration with the Aosta Valley Department of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the VINEA Association (Sierre - Switzerland), is the organizer of the 20th International Mountain Wine Competition, which is sponsored by the International Organization of Vine and Wine (OIV). This competition, which is open to wines produced from vineyards in mountainous or steeply sloping areas, is a point of reference for vine growers and wine producers in particularly demanding areas. The aim is to bring out all the unique features that these wines possess and to introduce consumers to them so that they can appreciate the cultural aspects related to mountain winegrowing and the valuable work carried out by vine growers to defend the land they belong to and the environment.

ARTICLE 2

The Event Committee, chaired by the President of CERVIM, is made up of seven members:

One single form will be sufficient, even if several samples are sent. Please send the documents together with the wine samples, inside the package.

ARTICLE 6

The event organisers do not accept any responsibility for any delays or late arrivals of the samples to Italy, for any damage or total/partial loss during shipment or transport, for any chemical/physical or organoleptic changes to the wine as a result of temperature variations, leakage or any other problems that may occur during shipment. The wine producer shipping the product is responsible for the costs of shipment, customs clearance and subsequent transportation required to deliver the wine to the event organisers. These costs are to be paid by the shipper directly to the forwarding agent. All the wines that do not follow the shipping and transportation rules indicated above will not be accepted. Those samples which do not meet the requirements will not be collected and therefore will be automatically excluded from the competition. If wines are disqualified then, the wine producer will have no right to recover the entry fee, which means that all shipping charges are the sole responsibility of the wine producer who ships all contents at his/her own risk. Any sample arriving without proper paperwork and ‘postage due’ will be rejected and not returned to the sender.

ARTICLE 7

Upon receiving the wines, the Event Committee will be responsible for preserving the samples for judging. Before the actual wine judging, the Event Committee will ensure the anonymity of each sample by assigning two codes to each sample:

- The first code will be assigned by the Event Committee when the wines arrive to Italy and are delivered to the Event Committee itself;
- Just before the samples are handed over to the wine judges, a second code will be assigned by a notary or lawyer formally appointed by CERVIM.

To ensure neutrality, this person, called the Competition Advisor, will have had no previous involvement in the wine industry prior to this event. The Competition Advisor will monitor the various administrative tasks carried out during the competition. If needed, he or she will be able to ask any of his or her colleagues to collaborate in the supervision process. The Competition Advisor will guarantee that all operational and regulatory requirements are met and will also ensure the preservation of the wine samples from the moment the samples are made anonymous and ready for judging until the judges have done their final evaluation for each group of wines.
