Coronavirus (COVID-19) update
8th June, 2021

Technical support, new product sales, service work performed at Cambustion and spare parts sales all continue as normal.

Our goods in/out remains open, and all our international shipping partners continue to operate.

Cambustion has been a COVID Secure workplace for many months, with systems and equipment adapted to allow those who can do so to work from home, while providing a COVID Secure environment for those who can only do their jobs in the workplace.

This arrangement can remain in place as long as required by government guidelines.

The UK Government's progressive relaxation of coronavirus restrictions offers the prospect of fewer restrictions on business travel in the coming months.

Service visits by Cambustion colleagues to customer sites within the UK and some international destinations are currently possible, provided certain conditions are met. Please discuss with your normal Cambustion contact.

Some visits to Cambustion by customers are possible. Mandatory quarantine periods apply for much international travel to the UK, and in-person meetings are only appropriate when there is no realistic alternative.

Please discuss with your normal Cambustion contact before making any travel plans.

Contact support@cambustion.com if you would like to send your equipment to Cambustion for servicing.

Our priority remains the protection of colleagues, customers and their families.

If you have specific concerns, please ask your normal Cambustion contact for detailed information, and refer to <https://www.cambustion.com/products/coronavirus> for updates.
