

Your adventure. Your health. Our research.

High Altitude Medicine meets Medical Informatics

Two students of medical informatics at Bern University of Applied Sciences have joined forces with high-altitude physicians from Zurich University Hospital.

The goal of this project is to bring existing knowledge about altitude medicine directly to those affected through a digital application – understandable, applicable and available at any time.

Take part in the survey.
Let us know what this app should be able to do.

For more details visit <https://hamix.ws/en>

<https://surveys.bfh.ch/high-altitude-app-survey>