FOUR GENERATIONS OF SILVERSMITHS
AND BIKERS

S I L V E R   W E A R

“The inhabitants of Utopia prized gold and silver less than they prized iron; for without iron, fire and water life would be impossible. The same cannot be said of gold and silver which are only valuable in relation to their rarity, a concept invented by human folly”.

Thomas More

THE CROCODILE
DILEMMA

A crocodile seizes a human baby who has been playing on the banks of the Nile. The mother implores the crocodile to return her child. "If you can predict accurately what I will do, I will return the child. However, if you guess wrong, I will devour it," says the crocodile. The mother then predicts "you will not return my baby!"

*“Well,” says the crocodile,
“I will return your baby,
for if I do return it, then
your prediction will be false
and since you predicted
incorrectly I cannot return
it.”*

FORK

ER COCCODRILLO

A man and his wife lay down a little while beside the sea, talking, laughing, lounging, when, all of a sudden, a crocodile rushed from the waters, jaws all agape and eyes a-bulging. The wife was in good shape. She rearranged her dress and off she ran. Meanwhile, the crocodile in a frenzy ate every morsel of her unlucky mate like a chicken dinner in a restaurant.

ARROW

A crocodile by nature eats a man, then bursts out crying, so that's what this one did bawling and braying like a little kid, fretting like a cuckold. On the quarter hour, came another shower.

Next day and the same location, seeing the lady near where he was lying, the crocodile broke out in a lamentation worse than before, weeping, wailing, eyeing the widow to see if shèd join in. Instead, she looked him in the eye."Listen,"she said, "I can't believe this! Are you still crying?"
