Information Governance

Data Protection Act 1998

All staff are under a personal and legal obligation to comply with information governance requirements. These include statutory responsibilities (such as compliance with the Data Protection Act 1998), following national guidance (such as the NHS Confidentiality Code of Practice) and compliance with local policies and procedures. Staff must also comply with the Caldicott Principles and common law duty of confidence.

Staff are responsible for any personal and commercially sensitive or confidential information, belonging to individuals including patients, and must ensure it is processed in a secure and appropriate manner. Failure of any staff member, contractor or third party to adhere to this instruction can be regarded as serious misconduct and may lead to disciplinary action in accordance with our HR policies/procedures and any relevant criminal legislation. Where the incident is serious, this may result in dismissal.

Confidentiality

You will process personal details and information relating to patients, staff, visitors and other individuals. This information is highly confidential and must not be discussed or divulged to any unauthorised person or in an unauthorised way. You are required at all times to comply with our rules, policies and procedures including guidance contained in any staff handbook(s). From time to time the company will exercise the right to change or update existing these documents and introduce new ones. Any breach of confidentiality could result in disciplinary action, including dismissal.

Other terms and conditions of your employment are detailed in our organisational policies that are available to all staff on SharePoint. These include our remote access and off-site working policies, code of conduct, IG and IT policies. All staff are responsible for adhering to our policies and procedures at all times. This includes taking appropriate measures to comply and enforce our expected standards in information sharing, records management and information quality.
