Life Terra 10th Steering Committee Meeting in Portugal

On 16 and 17 January, ANYH and the University of Aveiro hosted all partners of the consortium for the 10th Steering Committee Meeting of the project. This was the perfect chance not only for the various teams to present what they worked on during the last period, but also to meet face-to-face and get to know each other better. New solutions were presented, brainstorming sessions took place and trees were planted. The Life Terra consortium wishes to warmly thank ANYH and the University of Aveiro, who hosted the meeting with open arms. To read more, take a look at our blog post.

Life Terra welcomes new supervisory board

With the new year, Life Terra has drawn in a new Supervisory board, to help ensure the correct functioning of the foundation: Sigrid, Julia and Jeroen. The previous board members (Jurriaan Ruys, Tomas Simons and Bertien van Baak) remain strong advocates of tree planting initiatives and will continue supporting Life Terra as "Ambassadors". Interested in learning more about the project? All the information is available on the About us page.

Sangüesa, an example of a successful planting site

In recent newsletter editions, we have often included case studies of planting sites which we have monitored, to share the lessons we have learned by coming back to monitor previous planting sites. This month we are analysing the case of the planting site of Sangüesa, in Spain, where over a year since being planted, over 80% of the trees are still thriving. This seems to be due to favourable weather conditions, as well as constant maintenance.

Planting continues around Europe

We are now in the second half of the planting season and all over Europe trees are being put in the ground. Recently, several events have taken place in Spain, Portugal, and the Netherlands, with the support of both private landowners and organic farms. With these projects, Life Terra aims to combat the desertification of areas at risk (especially in the Iberian Peninsula) and to boost biodiversity.

The Life Terra manifesto

There is no better way to convey a message quickly and effectively than through a video. If you want to find out what Life Terra aims to accomplish and how, as well as the steps that are being taken towards the final goal, watch our most recent video.

Volte collaboration

Life Terra started collaborating with Volte, a search engine that helps non-profit organisations raise money. From now on, you will be able to use Volte for your web search and all the money raised through search ads will be donated to Life Terra to support planting projects and other initiatives. You can download Volte here and start supporting us from your home. Let's plant together!

lifeterra_europe 🌳 10,000 trees for the city of Nice 🌳

The city of Nice, in France, is a bit greener now with the initiative of its mayor: one tree for each inhabitant. And we wanted to take part in it!

Last November, Life Terra had the wonderful occasion to plant with a local school and receive the authorities to promote our 10,000 trees donation to this climate action campaign 🌱

🙌 Thank you to the @villedeNice for this initiative and to @ases.eco and @onetreepanted for their commitment and support.

Pleased to collaborate with @ReflorestarPt this season. We carried out a reforestation project of 2,000 trees and bushes to restore the water lines and the monoculture of eucalyptus and re-establish biodiversity.

25.000 new trees 🌳 in the south of Alentejo, Portugal. The season continues and another professional planting has been completed.

We are pleased to work with new landowners that are convinced about the importance of planting trees on their land. The soil of south Alentejo is really hard and it is vital to create a green cover to continue increasing the soil's organic matter.

🙌 Big thanks to all the landowners we are collaborating with for trusting the Life Terra work!
