CO2 Laser Resurfacing

Many skin treatments focus on one concern at a time. Some target discoloration, while others improve texture, or stimulate collagen. CO2 laser resurfacing does all three and its considered a gold standard treatment.

This advanced resurfacing treatment removes damaged outer layers of skin while stimulating deeper collagen production to improve the skin's texture and laxity. As your skin heals, new healthy skin cells replace the older damaged ones. The result is smoother, brighter, tighter and more refined skin over time.

What CO2 Laser Resurfacing Improves

Fine lines and wrinkles	Sun damage, age spots and discoloration
Acne scars and enlarged pores	Crepey skin, uneven and rough texture
Skin laxity and collagen production	Overall skin tone and brightness

Why Timing Matters

---

Allowing time for healing now means your skin continues improving in the months ahead.

Laser resurfacing treatments require dedicated healing time and careful sun protection.

During recovery, the skin is more sensitive to UV exposure, which is why these treatments are typically done during the cooler months of the year.

As spring progresses and sun exposure increases, treatment windows become more limited.

Short on time?

CO2 laser settings can be adjusted to a lighter Shine & Buff treatment with shorter recovery.

When Skin Renewal Happens

1 month after CO2 laser, improved skin tone, texture and tightness.

CO2 resurfacing activates the skin's natural renewal process.

During this time:

- ▶ Healthier new skin cells form
- ▶ Collagen production increases
- ▶ Texture and tone improve

6 months after CO2 laser, improved texture, softer lines, more even tone, and brighter skin.
