The first in a series of bilingual video installations by Sydney based artist Kylie Wilkinson exploring personal experiences and the public theatrics of nationalism.

Features Beijing artists Wang Qingsong, Lujie, Chen Linyang and others.

In an age of mass global movement, does it make sense to speak of 'the people' or 'a nation'?

What is 'nationalism'? Does everyone 'feel it' and who's asking anyway?

The Nationalism project is a development of The Ways We Work research and residency with support from the Australia China Council
