WILLIAM YANG STORY TELLING WORKSHOPS

Do you have a story to tell?

Performance 4A presents a rare opportunity for budding storytellers, playwrights, scriptwriters, poets and authors to join photographer and monologist William Yang for story telling workshops in Sydney on 15 & 22 March 2009.

The workshops will discuss participants' stories and their suitability for adaptation. Selected pieces will be developed over the two workshops.

No specialised skills in writing or performance are required to attend the workshops, although there is an obvious benefit if participants have an interest in these areas. Participants need not be Asian but their story should have an Asian or Asian cross-cultural theme.

Participants should bring a photo or photos or an object relating to their story. They may attend one or both workshops. Workshop II will further develop work begun in Workshop I, but will also cater for one-off participants.

DATES: Sunday 15th & 22nd March 2009
11am – 5pm followed by refreshments

COST: $30 per workshop / $50 for both workshops
Snacks and refreshments included

VENUE: Gallery 4A, 181-187 Hay Street, Sydney

BOOKINGS: <http://www.performance4a.org.au>

William Yang is well known as a photographer and performer. Since 1989 he has been performing monologues with image projection and music in the theatre. His pieces tend to be autobiographical and they explore themes of marginalisation: Australian Chinese family, gay community and aboriginal community. William has completed ten full length pieces most of which have toured Australia and internationally. www.williamyang.com
