Where we do disclose your personal information, it will be on the basis that these individuals and organisations are required to keep the information confidential and secure, and they will only use the information to carry out the instructed services.

7. Disclosure of personal information outside Australia and the EU or EEA

We may disclose personal information outside of Australia and the EU or EEA (European Economic Area) to the individuals and organisations described above, including third party suppliers and service providers located in the United States and Canada.

When you provide your personal information to us, you consent to the disclosure of your information outside of Australia and the EEA. While we are not required to ensure that overseas recipients handle that personal information in compliance with Australian privacy law or The European Union General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR), we will take reasonable steps to ensure that any overseas recipient will deal with such personal information in a way that is consistent with the Australian Privacy Principles, the GDPR and this Privacy Policy. We will also use seek to include the EU Commission-approved standard contractual clauses in the form of an appropriate data transfer agreement.

8. How long will we keep your personal information?

We will retain your personal information for as long as we consider necessary to provide the relevant services and to maintain business records for tax, legal and regulatory reasons.

In the context of our research and records relating to commissioned artworks, as well as participation in exhibitions and events, we will keep this data for as long as the record is relevant to our legitimate business interest and the public interest.

We keep an archive which documents our exhibitions, performances and events. All information stored in the archive is kept securely. Information in the archive is held by 4A indefinitely consistent with our legitimate interest in documenting the history of 4A.

9. Using our website and cookies

We may collect personal information about you when you use and access our website. While we do not use browsing information to identify you personally, we make use of cookies and other similar tracking devices to store information relating to your visit such as a unique identifier, or a value to indicate where you have seen a webpage. You can disable cookies through your internet browser, but our website may not work as intended for you if you do so.

We may also use cookies to enable us to collect data that may include personal information.

We will handle any personal information collected by cookies in the same way that we handle all other personal information as described in this Privacy Policy.

10. Security

We may hold your personal information in either electronic or hard copy form. We take reasonable steps to protect your personal information from misuse, interference and loss, as well as unauthorised access, modification or disclosure and we use a number of physical, administrative, personnel and technical measures to protect your personal information.

Notwithstanding these efforts, we cannot guarantee the security of your personal information held in our systems, nor that that information you supply through the internet, or any computer network is entirely safe from unauthorised intrusion, access, or manipulation during transmission. Any transmission is at your own risk, and we will not be liable for any resulting misuse of your personal data.

Our emails and website may contain links to websites operated by third parties. Those links are provided for convenience and may not remain current or be maintained.

Unless expressly stated otherwise, we are not responsible for the privacy practices of, or any content on, those linked websites, and have no control over or rights in those linked websites. The privacy policies that apply to those other websites may differ substantially from our Privacy Policy, so we encourage you to read them before using those websites.

11. Accessing or correcting your personal information, withdrawing consent

You can access the personal information we hold about you by contacting us using the contact details below. We may also need to verify your identity when you request your personal information.

If you think that any personal information we hold about you is inaccurate, please contact us and we will take reasonable steps to ensure that it is corrected. You can also request us to complete information if you believe it is incomplete.

You can also object to the collecting, use or disclosure of your personal information by us, or withdraw your consent to such processing by us, or request that we erase, restrict, or transfer your personal information to another organisation or directly to you. If you would like to make such a request, please contact us using the information below.

12. Making a complaint

If you wish to make a complaint about the way we have handled your personal information, you can contact us using the details set out below. Please include your name, email address and/or telephone number and clearly describe your complaint. We will acknowledge your complaint and respond to you regarding your complaint within a reasonable period. If you think that we have failed to resolve the complaint satisfactorily, we will provide you with information about the further steps you can take.

You may raise a complaint with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) or your local regulator if you consider that we have infringed applicable data privacy laws when processing your personal data. However, we would appreciate the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach the ICO or your local regulator, so please contact us in the first instance.
