BANQUET ROYALE

Roman Toga Party

An immersive experience where you will find yourself transported back to the Roman Empire with patricians in flowing togas strolling beneath marble arches, chariots racing by cheering throngs of spectators and affairs of state debated by senators in the Roman Forum.

You are invited to the imperial Salone dei Cavalieri ballroom, where you will join an opulent feast like those hosted by Julius Caesar at the height of the Roman Empire. Attire is strictly togas, sandals and crowns of laurel. A floor-to-ceiling replica of the Roman Forum frames famous scenes from the movie "Ben Hur" and enchanting dancers set the mood for a lavish buffet and plenty of calyxes of wine.

You and your guests will indulge in Roman specialties served by a phalanx of legionaries like Pasta all'Amatriciana and famous Roman General Lucullo's surprise dessert with flaming swords.

A glorious cultural experience and imperial culinary journey

BANQUET ROYALE

La Dolce Vita

Relive the seductive atmosphere of Rome in the 1960s, when Italy enjoyed a moment of rebirth and carefree living post WWII. Captured perfectly in Federico Fellini's 1960 silver screen masterpiece "La Dolce Vita" (The Sweet Life), this unique period of Italy's modern history has been turned into a memorable dinner experience at the Salone dei Cavalieri ballroom, where guests are welcomed on the red carpet by the flash of the paparazzi's cameras as they dart about on vintage Vespa's and FIAT 500's and your host will enter aboard a vintage Alfa Romeo Spider just like in the movies.

A live orchestra will play 1960s classic hits while dancers twirl amongst the guests surrounded by giant posters of the greatest Italian and Hollywood actors of the period. An elegant banquet will ensure your guests experience an unforgettable evening enjoying delicacies, dishes and wine from the many regions of Italy.

Enjoy the sweet and tasty Italian life

Memorable Music Brunch

The term "Brunch" first appeared in an article dated 1895 by British author Guy Beringer where he proposed "a light meal served late in the morning as an alternative to the heavy Sunday meals. Brunch is cheerful, sociable, it puts you in a good temper and sweeps away the worries and cobwebs of the week."

A special Brunch is presented with a grand concourse of sublime dishes by Executive Chef Fabio Boschero and the Uliveto Restaurant & Terrace team, perfected with fresh locally sourced and seasonal ingredients, and with sustainability at heart. Accompanied by live music and entertainment, the rich and refined menu includes a selection of appetizers and salads, raw seafood, cheese and cold cuts, pasta, meat and fish dishes, all laid out in a dynamic environment with different buffet areas and live cooking stations. To end on a sweet note, a grand buffet of desserts features mouth-watering pastries and delicacies by Pastry Chef Dario Nuti.

Rugantino Party

The warmth and whimsical nature of 18th century Rome was characterised by the genuine Roman flair for bursting into joyfully and unrestrained song and dance. A legendary figure of this period, subject of a famous Italian musical comedy, is dastardly Rugantino, an exuberant troublemaker living in Trastevere, one of Rome's oldest neighbourhood, who is apt to using his songs and jests to rile up the crowds.

A reproduction of a typical Roman street market with stands of fresh fish, fruit, vegetables, flowers and, of course, wine awaits you and your guests. Roman-style pizza is served piping hot from the brick oven served by waiters in period costumes at tables embellished with the classic red and white checkered tablecloths and wine jug candelabras as centrepieces. A traditional Roman folk band accompanies Rugantino as he strolls through the crowd singing, dancing and inviting guests to join in.

Campo de' Fiori

One of the oldest street markets in the heart of Rome, Campo de' Fiori, started its storied history, in the 18th century, as the preferred destination of farmers coming from the countryside to sell their herbs and vegetables in the square. Famous for inspiring many famous Italian directors and movies, the open air market soon saw stalls crop up that sold local food and wine to market goers.

Experience the same vibrant energy of Campo de' Fiori at your very own Street Food Festival. Wander around the different stalls and savour traditional Italian specialties, from fresh homemade pasta dishes, Roman pizza and typical "porchetta" sandwiches with fresh baked local bread, to fried seafood "al cartoccio" and savory meat skewers.

LIVE STATIONS

Culinary Journey from North to South Italy

The traditional Italian cuisine of everyday life, made of recipes handed down from generation to generation, is very different in each region of Italy. Simplicity and variety are the main elements that characterize Italian cuisine and fresh local ingredients are the undisputed protagonists.

Many are humble foods that later conquered national and foreign palates like the Piadina Romagnola, from the north-eastern part of Italy, and Porchetta from the villages of the Castelli Romani, at the gates of Rome, while one of the most beloved dishes in the world, Pizza, born in our beautiful Naples, comes from a more regal background which the Chefs are happy to describe.

For this gastronomic journey, you and your guests will enjoy the most traditional recipes prepared with seasonal raw materials coming from the region of origin, from the North to the South of the peninsula, with some stops in the central part, each linked to the rich and fascinating history of Italy.

✓ A never ending Italian flavour festival for all the senses ✓

The Spice Route

In ancient times, Venice was the fulcrum of Western and Eastern commercial routes; goods were imported from the East and exported throughout Europe, all passing through the Rialto market.

Today, the Stucky Garden plays host to extravagant food festivals inspired by the ancient spice routes of Venetian merchants. A stroll among the stands will lead you to discover some of the most exquisite delicacies like Pita stuffed with spiced duck strips or handmade Spring rolls, as well as a mix of colours and aromas from ginseng to black pepper, cinnamon and tea.

The passion and dedication of the Chef, paired with the atmosphere and the location, will ensure a truly unforgettable experience for all your guests.
