CITIES

Verona is situated in southwestern Veneto, close to the eastern bank of Lake Garda; renowned for the beauty of its landscape, Lake Garda is green, pretty hills, and beaches large and small.

Verona is the city of love, and William Shakespeare is the author that made it famous around the world with his most romantic tragedy: Romeo and Juliet.

Undoubtedly the first destination is the house of Juliet.

But Verona it is also a beautiful city full of monuments to be seen, beginning with the picturesque Piazza delle Erbe and ending with the magnificent Arena.

An aerial photograph of Verona, Italy, taken at dusk. The Adige river flows through the city, reflecting the warm orange and yellow lights of the setting sun. The Verona Cathedral (Cattedrale di San Zeno) is a prominent feature, with its tall, slender bell tower (campanile) standing out against the sky. The city's architecture is a mix of medieval and Renaissance styles, with red-tiled roofs and stone buildings. The overall atmosphere is serene and romantic.

Venice is elegant, precious, inimitable, entertaining, and romantic. It is a jewel in the Italian touristic landscape, where churches, buildings, old bridges, monuments and piazzas are the evidence of the artistic and cultural vivacity that marks the history of this city.

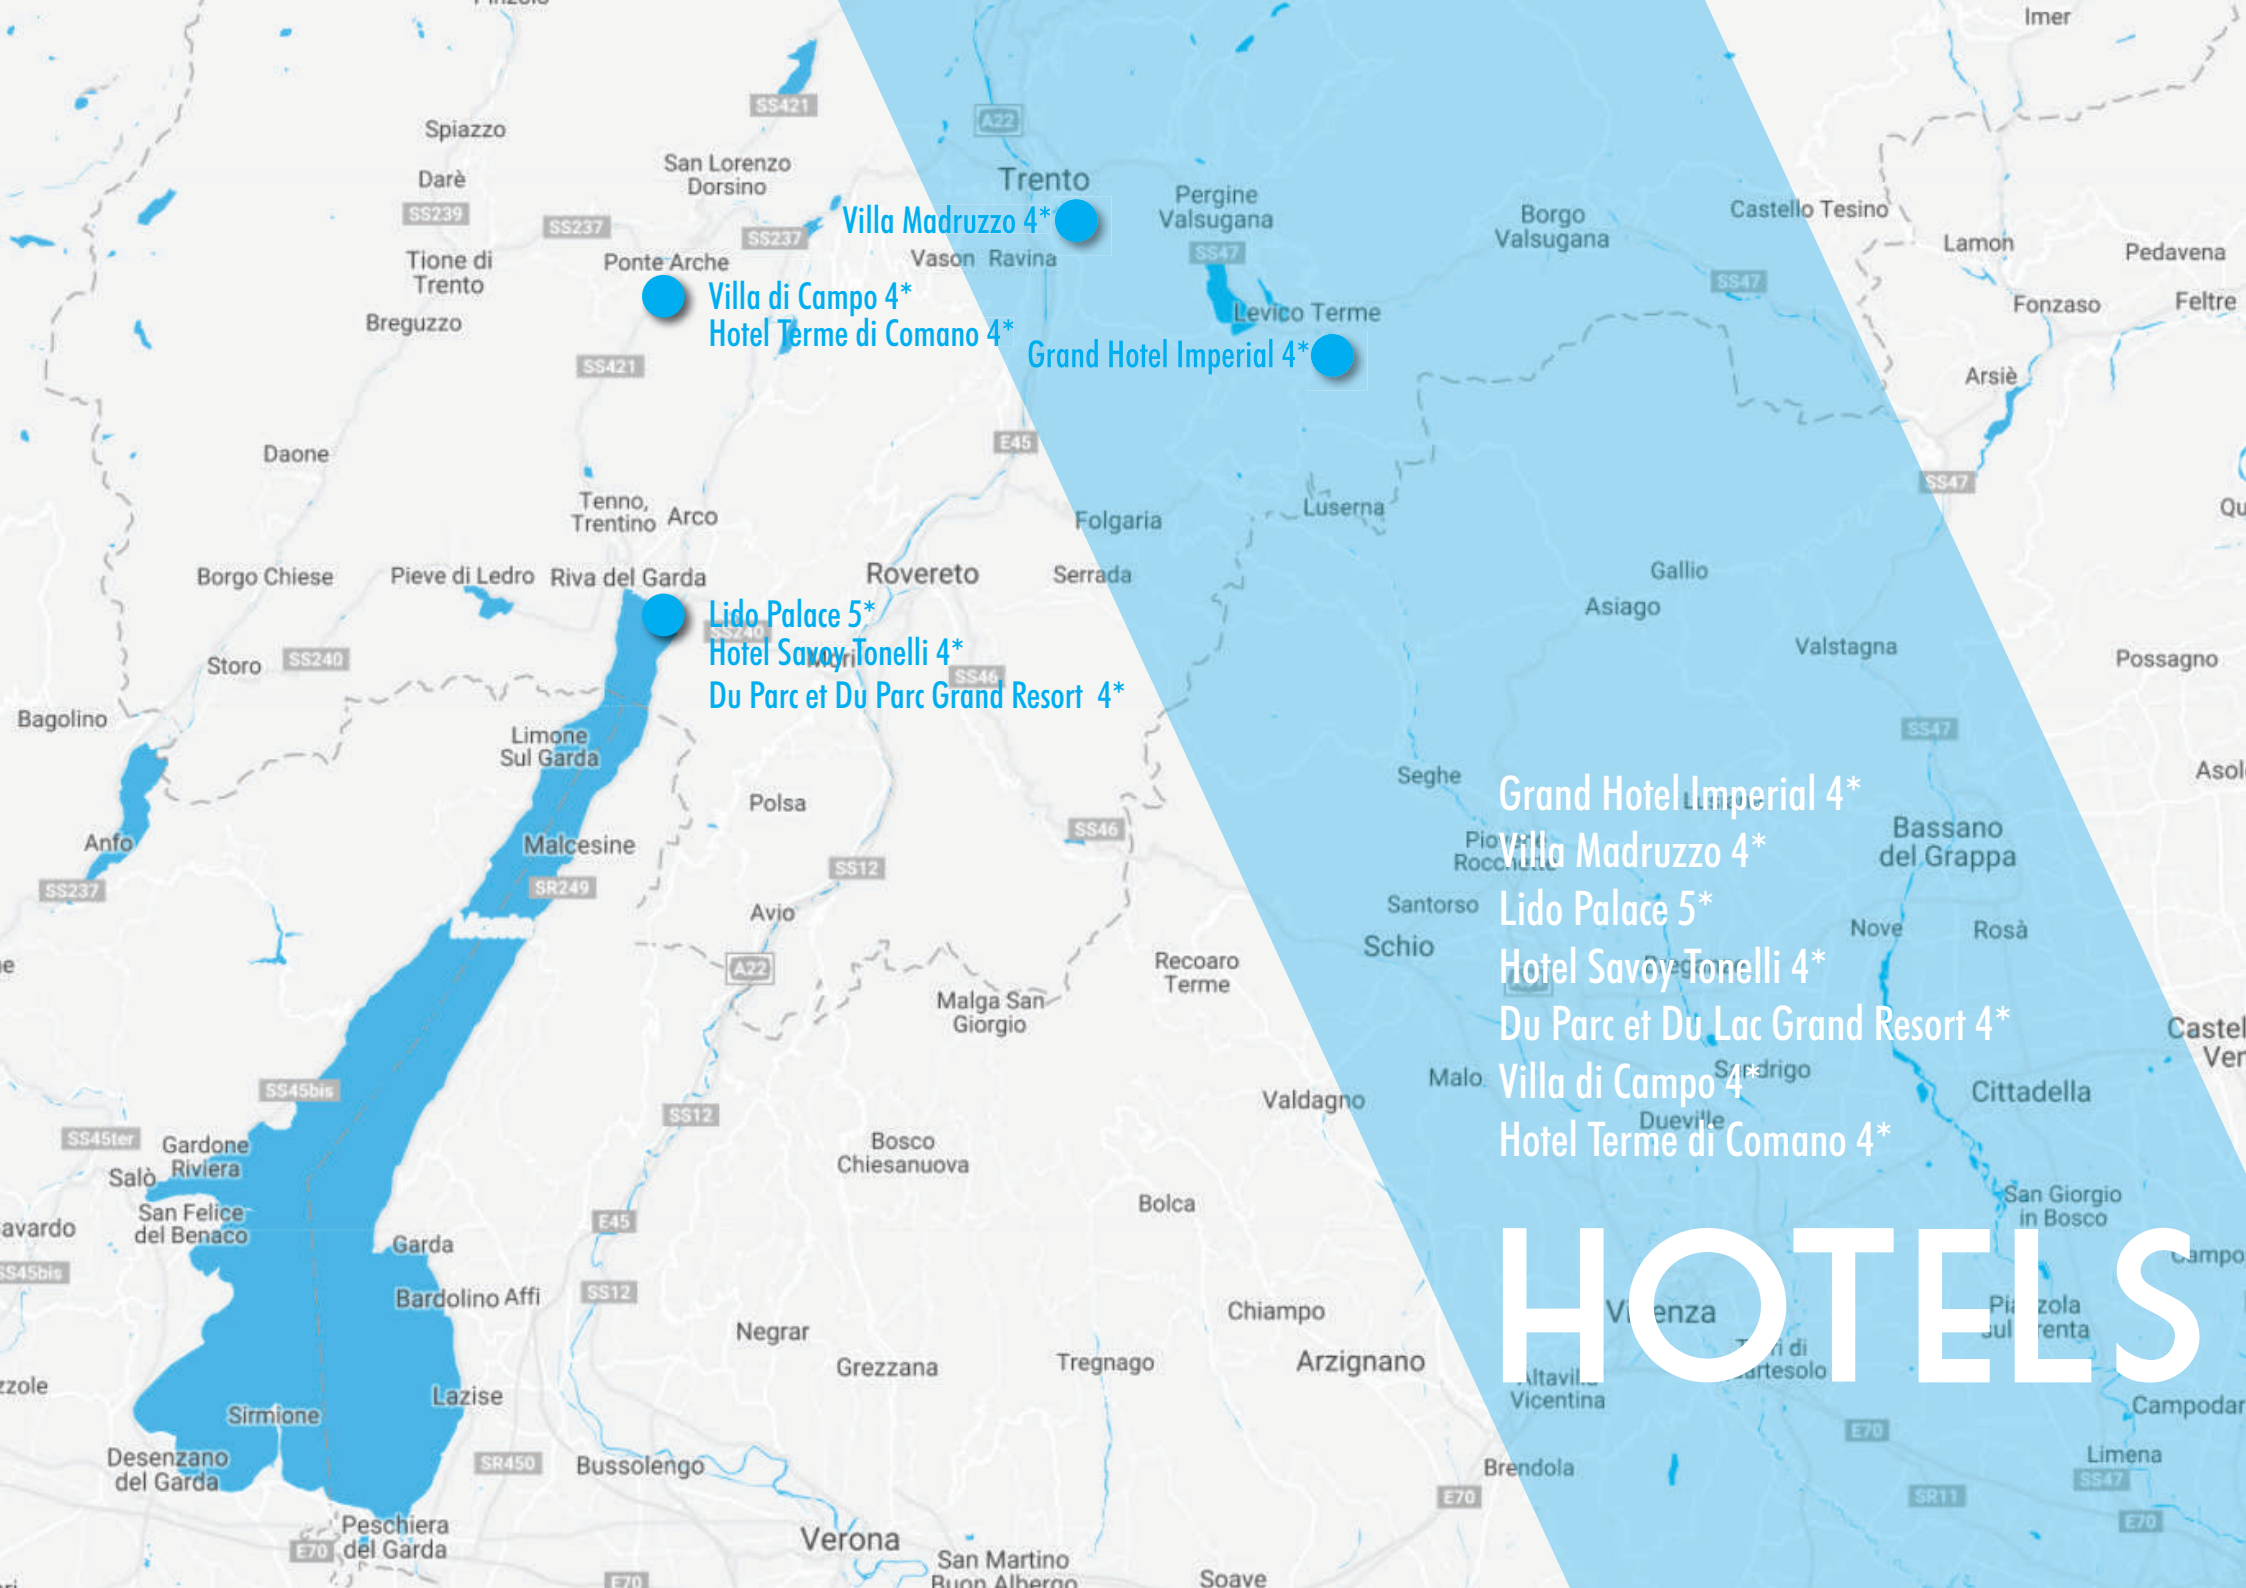

The heart of Venice is the wonderful Piazza San Marco - the most elegant in Europe - surrounded by outstanding buildings.

Venice is the best of outdoor museums, and it can be toured by boat or by gondola, most easily along the Canal Grande, the main Venetian thoroughfare.
