

CARRIER OILS

All-natural Carrier Oils

Sunflower Oil

Sunflower oil is highly absorbent, and won't clog pores. It's non-irritating for most people, and can be used on all types of skin, including dry, normal, oily, and acne-prone. It has a neutral odor.

Sweet Almond Oil

The oil is lightweight and absorbs easily, and is a great moisturizer for dry skin. Sweet almond oil is one of the most popular carrier oils for skin care. They're full of healthy fats, fiber, phytochemicals, vitamins, and minerals.

Apricot Kernel Oil

Apricot kernel oil is made from apricot seeds. It's an emollient oil high in fatty acids and vitamin E. It absorbs easily into the skin and has a slightly sweet, nutty scent. The oil is thought to help soften and calm irritated, itchy skin.

MCT Oil

As one of the best carrier oil options, MCT gets its name from the structure of its molecules: Medium Chain Triglycerides. Due to its smaller molecular structure, MCT is more digested and absorbed more easily by the human body.

Joboba Oil

Jojoba oil has a delicate, nutty aroma with powerful moisturizing properties. It's thought to closely mimic sebum, the skin's natural oil. Jojoba oil absorbs easily in the skin and doesn't clog pores.

Safflower Oil

Safflower oil is known for its softening, moisturizing, nourishing and soothing properties due to its richness in vitamins E and K as well as omega-6, which makes it a privileged care for dry, delicate, irritated or redness-prone skins.

Specifications

In aromatherapy, Carrier Oils are used to dilute essential oils and help "carry" them onto the skin. Diluting essential oils is a common safety practice due to oil's high potency. Our carrier oils may be used alone or with other oils to help nourish the skin.
