

Ignacio Loeser

Associate Principal, Santiago

Ignacio is an Associate Principal based in RBB's office in Santiago, Chile.

Prior to joining RBB, Ignacio worked at different economic consultancies advising global companies on a wide range of competition matters. He also served as an economist at the Merger division of the Chilean Competition Authority (FNE).

Ignacio holds a Master of Public Administration from the London School of Economics, where he specialised in Industrial Organisation and Data Science, and a Master's in Economics from Universidad Católica de Chile.

His experience spans across various industries and conducts. Matters include advising Copec S.A. in a case involving exclusionary practice concerns raised by the FNE, and advising Volvo and Renault in follow-on damage assessments in the UK. He also led an economic team assessing the Essilor/Luxottica merger at the FNE.

Ignacio has taught economics at Universidad Católica de Chile, where he also received his Master's in Economics. In addition, he holds a Master of Public Administration from the London School of Economics, where he specialised in Industrial Organisation and Data Science.

He is of Chilean nationality and fluent in Spanish and English.
