

Anthony Zhang

Associate Principal, London

Anthony is an Associate Principal based in RBB's London office. He joined the company in 2024. Prior to this, Anthony worked for five years at another leading economic consultancy, specialising in providing advice on competition litigation cases, which includes collective and class actions. Anthony holds degrees in economics from the LSE and Warwick.

Anthony has advised clients on a variety of high-profile cases, focusing on competition litigation in front of UK courts. He has advised clients on both the claimant and defendant side, preparing expert reports and assisting with testimony. He has worked extensively on damage assessment in cartel matters and has also developed various standalone class action claims.

In addition, prior to joining RBB, Anthony regularly advised companies on issues relating to economic regulation in the water and energy sectors and advised various government departments on their economic policy.

Anthony holds a BSc in Economics from LSE, and an MSc in Behavioural Economics from the University of Warwick.

Recent Case Experience

Water collective action
Class action litigation, UK

Royal Mail, BT and Dawsongroup
Trucks cartel follow-on litigation. UK

Gormsen v Meta
Class action litigation, UK

Boyle v Govia Thameslink Railway
Class action litigation, UK