

Dallas Symphony Orchestra Joins Symphony.live

Making their music accessible around the world

Amsterdam, October 31, 2024 – Symphony.live, the global classical music streaming platform, is proud to announce the addition of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra (DSO) as its newest orchestra partner from the United States of America. Founded in 1900, the DSO is renowned for its world-class performances and recorded legacy. They received international accolades for their recently completed Wagner Ring Cycle led by Music Director Fabio Luisi.

Fabio Luisi Music Director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra

Starting this fall, select DSO performances with world-renowned musicians will be available for streaming on Symphony.live. Audiences worldwide will have the opportunity to experience the excellence of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra from the comfort of their homes. By joining Symphony.live, the DSO is expanding its online presence beyond the boundaries of its Dallas home.

"We are thrilled to partner with Symphony.live to bring our performances to more audiences around the world," said Fabio Luisi, Music Director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. "We are delighted to be part of a platform that shares our vision for innovation and accessibility. This collaboration allows us to expand our digital footprint and reach even more music lovers."

Symphony.live is equally excited to welcome the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. "Having the Dallas Symphony Orchestra join Symphony.live is a tremendous honor," said Jeroen van Egmond and Maarten Walraven, Co-CEOs of Symphony.live. "Their extraordinary artistry and commitment to education and innovation align perfectly with our mission to make classical music more accessible, and we know our audience will be eager to experience their performances."

With this new digital venture, the Dallas Symphony Orchestra continues to demonstrate its leadership in the classical music world while embracing new platforms to engage a broader and more diverse audience.

About the Dallas Symphony Orchestra:

The Dallas Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Music Director Fabio Luisi, presents more than 150 orchestra concerts each year at the Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center, one of the world's top-rated concert halls. As the largest performing arts organization in the Southwest, the DSO is committed to inspiring the broadest possible audience with distinctive classical programs, inventive pops concerts and innovative multi-media presentations. As part of its commitment to the community, the orchestra reaches more than 243,000 adults and children annually through performances, educational programs and community outreach initiatives. The orchestra offers more than 200 chamber concerts in neighborhoods throughout Dallas each year, as well as music lessons to more than 1500 students as part of its Young Strings and Young Musicians programs. The DSO has a tradition dating back to 1900 and is a cornerstone of the unique, 118-acre Arts District in Downtown Dallas that is home to multiple performing arts venues, museums and parks – the largest district of its kind in the nation. The DSO is supported, in part, by funds from the Office of Arts & Culture, City of Dallas. For more information, visit dallassymphony.org.
