Introduction

The new framework programme for research and innovation for the period 2021-2027, Horizon Europe, announced new plans to strengthen gender equity in European organizations. In particular, for all research organizations and higher education institutions, funding from the Horizon Europe research programme requires the adoption of a Gender Equality Plan (GEP). In parallel, access to funding from the NRP programmes will also only be allowed to those universities, research institutions and other public and private entities that have or commit to adopting in the first year of the project, a Gender Balance Sheet and a Gender Equality Plan.

The aims of the European Commission's GEP are:

- conduct impact assessments/audits of procedures and practices to identify gender bias;
- identify and implement innovative strategies to correct gender biases;
- define targets and processes for monitoring progress through indicators.

It also indicates five priority areas of intervention to which specific measures should be devoted, namely:

- work/life balance and organisational culture;
- gender balance in top management positions and decision-making bodies;
- gender equality in recruitment and career advancement;
- gender mainstreaming in research and teaching programmes;
- combating gender-based violence, including sexual harassment.

Finally, it recommends that it be a public and accessible document, approved and signed by the institution's top bodies.
