Autogenous Bone – The Gold Standard.

AUTOgrafter™
autogenous bone collector

- Simple method for obtaining autogenous bone
- Designed to filter and retain particles of bone suctioned during surgery
- Titanium screen collects the autogenous graft material and is pressed to force out excess fluids before being used in the graft site
- Graft may be obtained from almost any bony site, including: dental implant preparation sites, the mandible, maxilla, and calvarium

ACE AUTOgrafter

Simple method for obtaining autogenous bone

The design of the ACE AUTOgrafter allows the surgeon to filter and retain particles of bone which have been suctioned along with standard irrigation during surgery. The graft may be obtained from almost any bony site; examples include dental implant preparation sites, the mandible, maxilla, calvarium, etc. The collected graft material can be used either in a wet amorphous form, or a compressed osseous particulate. The drier particulate, which is easier to handle, can be obtained by compressing the collected material in a screen with the titanium plunger. This forces out excess moisture through the screen.

NOTE: The ACE AUTOgrafter is not a routine suction device; therefore, bleeding should be controlled prior to use. The ilium should not be used as clots will clog this device.
